

Summer Green Team Climate Care: 12 weeks Questions to Ponder and Act UponWeek 9 of Summer Creation Care: Climate Justice as Racial Justice

The impacts of climate justice falls unevenly on different communities. Communities who do the least to contribute to climate crisis have to bear the impacts first and worst. The climate crisis is jeopardizing the health and well-being of our most vulnerable neighbors around the world and in the United States. For one example, regions like Uganda and Chad now have regular record breaking flooding and droughts. We can go deeper in our journey by taking action for the well-being of our climate-affected neighbors.

Question to ponder and act upon:

- How is climate justice also racial justice?
- In what ways do we (personally or communally) ignore this when we practice “creation care”?
- How does our understanding of climate justice change when we understand that Black, Indigenous, and other people of color are most affected by climate change?

Source: https://sojo.net/sites/default/files/zine\_with\_discussion\_guide.pdf